

Armada High grad publishes two books

At just 23 years old, Armada High School graduate Sara Teller has published two books, has a third being reviewed by a publisher and has completed two more manuscripts.

Teller wrote her first book, "Once Upon A Starry Night," at the age of 20 while a student at Michigan State University. The book was published last June.

It tells the story of a young woman dealing with lost love and single parenthood and explores how daydreams can affect a person's sanity. It was published by Dorrance Publishing Co.

Teller's second book, "Cookies," tells the stories of a young woman who leaves her small hometown for a new life in San Francisco and the woman's first love. Teller wrote "Cookies" when she was 22 and it was published by PublishAmerica a month after "Once Upon A Starry Night."

A 2001 graduate of Armada High School, Teller received a bachelor of arts degree in general management from Michigan State University. She has written for several magazines, including Hour Detroit, Faith and the MSU Alumni Magazine.

While she enjoys writing, Teller calls publishing her "passion" and is currently seeking a position in that field. She worked as an associate acquisitions editor for Publications International, Ltd. in the
